Milligan & Company, one of the largest minority and veteran-owned accounting and consulting firms in the U.S., is celebrating its 25th anniversary this fall.

Founder and Managing Partner John Milligan has built a firm that is recognized nationally for its expertise in government compliance, audit, accounting and consulting services to government agencies, non-profit organizations and private and public corporations. The firm has specialized practices areas that serve the transportation industry, employee benefit plans and tax credit partnerships. Milligan & Company also consults on economic development and diversity/equal opportunity initiatives.

When he launched the firm in 1985, John Milligan had a vision for his company. “Diversity is at the core of everything we do – that includes offering a broad range of services to a variety of clients. This creates an interesting and motivating work environment that enables us to attract and keep top talent,” said Milligan.

“Our employees epitomize diversity. We are multi-cultural and multi-generational, and our workforce includes minority groups of all types. Half the firm’s senior management and professional staff are female. Our employee diversity provides a rich working environment,” added Denise Bailey, Principal in charge of Milligan’s Consulting Practice.

“Historically, blacks have one of the lowest levels of representation in the accounting industry: about three percent,” noted Jovan Goldstein, Partner in Milligan’s Audit Practice. “That has posed challenges for young black accountants, but it has also given our firm a unique position. Milligan has become a firm of choice for many large organizations that embrace supplier diversity and quality services.”

Milligan & Company also partners with professional service firms in fields such as engineering, economics, forensic accounting, technology and management consulting to provide comprehensive client solutions.

John Milligan has been a selfless contributor to the region’s nonprofits. In addition to founding and serving as board chair of the Greater Philadelphia Minority Business Strategic Alliance, he is board treasurer for the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. Last year, he was a recipient of the Philadelphia Business Journal's inaugural Minority Business Leaders award.

Headquartered in Philadelphia, PA, Milligan & Company has offices in Washington, DC; Baltimore, MD; Wilmington, DE; and Cherry Hill, NJ. The firm provides audit, assurance and accounting services to clients including PNC Bank, US Department of Transportation, Girl Scouts USA, Johns Hopkins University, the National Council of Churches and United Way of Southeastern Pennsylvania.
